

BETWEEN INSIDER AND THE REAL-TIME MARKET

What makes you feel confident? Confident in your every day trading experience? Confident in your important business decisions? Or do you need a real-time map of the market with a true vision for investors and portfolio managers?

The answer is obvious - information.

Hereby we would like to represent the brief overview of the following websites: Markets Insider and Barchart. We have highlighted the key aspects, which could affect the trading strategy of online traders and brokers, benchmarking agencies and financial startups.

- General description

Markets Insider is a stock market site issued by Business Insider with real-time data, custom charts and breaking news, where you can obtain the latest information regarding stocks, commodities, currencies, funds, etc.

Meanwhile, Barchart, issued by Barchart.com Inc, is the leading provider of real-time or delayed intraday stock and commodities, charts and quotes.

- Menu interface

Both websites let you navigate through typical - for trading field - menu sections such as Stocks, Currencies, ETFs and News.

Though we have noticed that at Markets Insider you might find the special section Cryptocurrencies, which we consider very actual, also - which is very predictable and comes from the website's name - there is a section Markets. Based on the logic of the menu interface, sections Indices and Commodities are also represented at the menu of the given website.

Talking about Barchart, we would like to describe its menu interface as less strict and standard with the modern approach and here's why: a list of Options is included into a separate section, the same section is created for Futures. Barchart also demonstrates a "tailor-made" attitude to your trading queries by offering a Dashboard section - a perfect application, which lets you browse and customize the charts that are most important to you. And even the expectations from the most demanding website's visitors will be fully met as soon as they navigate through section Tools, which chapters offer a great choice of financial tools, templates, portfolios, webinars, reports and a convenient way to organize all this toolkit.

- News feed and articles

Each of us is aware of the fact that news affects the trading markets a lot. And this is why every trader always keeps his eye on the news feed and all other sensitive information. The representation of the news is also special for both websites we consider in this review.

Markets Insider offers the accurate structure of the news and articles by dividing them into the following chapters: Stock Market News, where you can find the latest stories from Business Insider and a full picture about the situation at the main financial markets. This information is accompanied by charts, entitled Markets Now and Your Market View. Same structure you will find at the sections Stocks, Indices, Commodities. We here find this representation very clear and effective, you may easily compare the trading trends and the actual figures, the leading tendencies and the expected forecasts. Market Insider also adds to its content the special news feed chapter named Sponsored Financial Content, and please do not be confused by this title as this is not just another “ad”, but a true insider’s information delivered to the public from the famous names of the market.

Barchart, in its up to date manner, represents the news feed shortly under the one title - Markets Today - where you will find the whole news content and lots of financial reviews and articles, mixed with different charts and table overviews.

- Valuable Tips

Investigate the live map of the chapter Indices at Markets Insider. We found it very interactive and demonstrative in regards to analysis of the key world indices.

Sign up at the Barchart to get the privilege of using the latest up to date trading toolkit to meet all your professional demands.

Finalizing our summary we would like to share with you some conclusions.

Markets Insider is a typical informative and well-structured financial website, providing its visitors with all possible data from the markets, accompanied by detailed and demonstrative information materials. We would recommend you to arrange the subscription in order to get the latest news on a regular basis.

Barchart will challenge you to arrange your financial routine in a modern way, using the latest algorithms and a great opportunity to create your personal financial toolkit.
